PRESBYTERIAN EDUCATIONAL CAMPAIGN OPENS THIS WEEK

The Presbyterian movement for Christian education will open up in Paris this week. Mr. E. R. Pike, representing the city section of the movement, with headquarters in Louisville, will arrive here Saturday and confer with the Presbyterian church leaders on the work to be done in this city.

The Presbyterians plan to raise $1,000,000 in Kentucky among the 35,000 members of that denomination and this fund will be apportioned to Centre College, $300,000; Presbyterian Seminary at Louisville, $300,000; Kentucky College for Women, Danville, $200,000; Witherpoon College, Buckhorn, Ky., $50,000; Pikeville College, Pikeville, Ky., $50,000; and the balance to be apportioned to Matthew T. Scott, Jr., Academy, Phelps, Ky., Lees Collegiate Institute, Jackson, Ky., and Sayre School, at Lexington.

"It will be seen," says a statement from headquarters, "that we have covered every branch of educational work in Kentucky. We have the endorsement of our church leaders and the backing of everyone interested in education. The situation in Kentucky according to Dr. Frank McVey, president of the University of Kentucky, is serious and everything that can be done to better educational conditions should be aided by all interested in Christian education."

Mr. Pike will arrange at once for the appointment of local committees to conduct the actual campaign. During the work here there will be a number of visiting ministers, widely known throughout the Presbyterian church.

THE BOOSTER TRIP

In this issue will be found the official schedule of the Booster Trip, which will be given on Wednesday, August 30, under auspices of the Paris Commercial Club and the merchants of Paris. The schedule has been made up so as to allow for delays at different points.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church will serve dinner on the campus at the Millersburg Military Institute, to the Boosters, at noon, on that day. Tickets for the dinner are on sale at the Farmers' Bank and the Exchange Bank, at Millersburg, at 75 cents.

All indications point to a most enjoyable day for the Boosters. The relaxation from business cares, the out-of-doors trip, meeting and mixing with the people of all sections of the county, and the entertainment features arranged by the committees in charge, should make the day one of unqualified delight.

TOBACCO BEING CUT PREMATURELY

Premature tobacco cutting is going on in Bourbon county, as well as in other counties in this section, owing to the drouth of unusual severity that is prevailing over the Bluegrass. Farmers are cutting their tobacco wherever the plants show signs of "burning." The crop, according to local growers, is being damaged considerably by the drouth compelling early cutting.

Some farmers state that although the quality of the tobacco would be good, the yield will be light, and is considerably decreased. With the exception of some tobacco where the tops are still green, the premature cutting is not bad, as the crop is housing up nicely.

Reports say that in scattering instances the tobacco is really ready to cut, but that in most cases the growers are cutting simply to prevent greater damage by the heat. Crops already in the barn are curing in good shape, the weather being perfect for this stage of handling the crop.

Corn crops are reported as suffering from the drouth. Early corn gives promise of a good yield, but the late plantings are reported as being anything but promising in appearance and prospects.

There's no excuse for getting half sick and run down when Tanlac will make you well, sturdy and strong. Tanlac is sold by all good druggists. (adv)

THE STRIKE SITUATION

Hopes of a settlement of the railway shopmen's strike, which were held out to the American public following the big conference of last Friday, appears to have been wrecked completely.

The 148 members of the Association of Railway Executives, gathered from all parts of the country at the call of T. Dewitt Cuyler, their chairman, announced after hours of secret deliberation that they stood for surrender by the strikers of their seniority rights. It is known that when their conference opened at the Yale Club, Forty-fourth Street and Vanderbilt Avenue, the Western and Southern executives and a number of the Eastern men favored conciliatory measures.

All prospects of peace, however, were shattered by the "die-hard" group which for the last few days had been marshaling its forces for the purpose of obstructing any kind of peace that would not mean disrupting of the shopmen's union.

Persons in a position to speak authoritatively for the shopmen declared that there could be no separate compromise. They said that the strikers would have to go back in a body or not at all.

The gathering was the third the executives have held this month for the purpose of considering proposals to end the strike. At the first meeting they unanimously rejected President Harding's overtures on the ground that they could not restore the seniority of the men. At their second they were divided on this same question.

Members of the "Big Five" brotherhood group of rail strike mediators met yesterday at an uptown hotel, New York, and then left hurriedly for a secret conference at an undisclosed place with representatives of the small group of rail executives who Wednesday were ready to take up as individual roads further negotiations.

The failure of a majority of the road to participate in negotiations which the so-called minority continued late Wednesday night was ascribed to two reasons:

1—Their refusal to recognize the seniority demands of the strikers as a basis of settlement.

2—Their refusal to consider taking back all of the strikers, a point which President Harding's last proposal contained and which the strikers have consistently demanded.

The minor group was understood to be willing to take back all of their old men providing it could be done without necessitating a withdrawal from the stand on seniority in which they concurred with the majority.

MAKE VALUABLE FIND AT RUMMAGE SALE

Several months ago a rummage sale was held in the Northcott building, on Main street, vacated by W. T. Talbott as a clothing store. As usual, all sorts of contributions were sent to the sale, being mainly articles that could well be disposed of as surplus and undesirable stock around the homes of Paris people.

Among those who attended the sale was Louis Wollstein, of the Twin Bros. store, next door. Mr. Wollstein had just disposed of a good dinner, and feeling at peace with all the world, stood taking in the sights and sounds at the sale. Finally, the auctioneer placed on sale a pen-and-ink drawing, nicely framed. Mr. Wollstein purchased the outfit for seventy-five cents, being desirous of getting the frame and glass more than the picture it enclosed. After the drawing had been stowed away in an obscure place about the store for several weeks Sello Wollstein, son of the purchaser, happened to be making a close inspection and discovered the drawing to be a genuine one from the pen of Charles Dana Gibson, whose drawings have a high value in the art world of to-day. There was the genuine flowing signature of Gibson in the corner. Art critics who have examined the drawing pronounce it a genuine Gibson and a valuable find. The drawing illustrates "The Education of Mr. Pipp," the subject taken from one of Dickens' novels.

The annual meeting of the State Board of Veterinary Examiners will be held in Frankfort Monday, August 28, for the purpose of holding an examination for applicants for veterinary licenses.

RUSSELL RESIGNS AS BLUE GRASS LEAGUE HEAD

Thomas M. Russell, of Maysville, president of the Blue Grass League, who was also president of the Blue Grass League of a decade ago, tendered his resignation at a meeting of the club owners at the Phoenix Hotel in Lexington, Wednesday night. Mr. Russell will continue in office until his successor is elected.

Club owners present expressed much regret that Mr. Russell should give up the presidency, but he explained that the pleasure of holding the office was not enough to compensate him for the "enemies" he had made while trying to do his duty. It was largely through the efforts of Mr. Russell that the Blue Grass circuit, composed of but six clubs and carrying a schedule, of but two games a week, was able to weather the storms that threatened to upset it during the early part of the season. No mention has been made as to who may be his successor.

The meeting was hastily arranged, and was not announced by Mr. Russell until Wednesday. A number of other matters were discussed, including financial arrangements, umpires, "meddling with players," and contracts. No definite action was taken, except that it was decided that all contracts be forwarded directly to the president.

The Winchester and Lexington clubs agreed good-naturedly to fight it out to the bitter end for the possession of John "Rasty" Wright, who has pitched for both clubs, and who has also been sold to Pittsburgh. Apparently an extensive legal battle is to result.

President Russell announced that Devereaux, Winchester first baseman, and Class, Maysville outfielder, had been fined $25 and $10 respectively for a fist fight in which the two engaged in a recent game. Every club in the league with the exception of Mt. Sterling was represented.

BOURBON GUN CLUB

We held our regular shoot Wednesday afternoon with twenty-two shooters taking part in the afternoon's sport. The crowd was small on account of so many housing tobacco, and threatening weather, which finally did develop in having several nice showers. Now if our opening the gun club will have any think to do with getting some badly needed rains, we will go over there and stay open day and night. The trophy, a nice traveling toilet set, donated by A. J. Winters & Co., was won by Douglas Thomas, Jr., after a battle royal, four tying for first shoot-off, then two for second shoot-off and the third shoot-off decided the winner. Don't forget the big all-day registered shoot, which is known as the Blue Grass Championship, and will be held at Hill Top, on the farm of Alfred Clay. Scores:

BURLEY SPEAKERS TO ADDRESS GROWERS TO-MORROW

Geoffrey Morgan, secretary of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation, and Judge Denis Dundon, of Paris, will speak at points in West Virginia Saturday in the interest of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association. J. Sherman Porter, editor of the Burley Tobacco Grower and publicity director of the association, will speak to-day at Vevay and Saturday at North Vernon, Ind., at meetings of tobacco growers to be held in those towns.

Clifton Rodes, who has been in charge of the West Virginia campaign, which included also the counties of Southeastern Ohio, passed through Lexington Tuesday on his way to Western Kentucky, where he will aid in the campaign to sign up the dark district. Judge Robert W. Bingham, who has been financing the dark district campaign, as he did that of the Burley district, sent Mr. Rodes to West Virginia to organize that State and, at the request of Judge Bingham, the officials of the Burley Association agreed to release Mr. Rodes for the present to the dark tobacco growers' association.

H. B. Carpenter, of Anderson county, who has been with Mr. Rodes ever since Judge Bingham sent him to reopen the West Virginia campaign, is his successor as manager in that territory. He has been one of the most successful field men in the service of the association.

Burley officials have been very well pleased with what has been accomplished in that territory, is was stated at the offices, about 3,000 growers having been added to the membership since Mr. Rodes resumed the campaign to sign them up. Mr. Carpenter and those assisting him will press the work until every grower has had an opportunity to sign.

TRIAL OF REESE FOX SET FOR TO-DAY.

The date for the examining trial of Reese Fox, charged with complicity in the murder of Leon Renaker, at Winchester, was set for today at 10 o'clock.

James G. Denny, of Lexington, has been employed as counsel by the defense, it was announced. The other attorneys for the defense are G. T. Wyckoff and James F. Winn.

The defense will try to prove an alibi for the accused by Fox's grandfather, John Rees, with whom the boy makes his home, it was said. The grandfather is expected, it is said, to testify that Fox was at home at 12 o'clock in the night of the murder.

FIRE DESTROYS COTTAGE

The one-story cottage of Frank Parker, colored, at North Middletown, caught fire Tuesday morning during the absence of the family and was destroyed, together with all its contents, including $50 in currency. For a time the entire town was in danger. A truck load of laborers from the Xalapa Farm rendered valuable assistance in saving neighboring property, and preventing spread of the flames.

FLOWING OIL WELL SHOT IN MT. STERLING

The Big Four Oil Company, which recently struck oil on the Hon Packing Company lot in Mt. Sterling, shot the well and the test showed between 15 and 16 barrels of Pennsylvania crude. The well was brought in at a depth of less than 300 feet. Another well was started Wednesday by the same company on the farm of Mrs. W. R. Tabor, formerly the W. T. Fitzpatrick property, where a small well was struck several years ago. Experts are sanguine of a producing field when they make their deep well test, which, it is understood, will be started soon on the J. R. Magowan property.

And every beach where Mary went
They needed more police.

Some farmers say nobody can afford to farm without a tractor, and some incline to the view that nobody can afford to farm.

The typical Paris man of to-day is the fellow who has a change of casings and a few spare tubes, although he may be short on shirts, socks and pajamas.

Judging from scraps of conversations we have heard recently the average Paris flapper of to-day has taken up the idea that Maude Muller was an awful chump to do all that work in the hayfield.

Experts say the game of baseball is ruining the future of golf. In our opinion the game that is ruining the future of golf is golf, and almost the same thing may be said to apply to certain phases of baseball.

The King of Egypt signalizes the first year of his reign by ordering a newspaper, forty-seven years old, to suspend publication. He's too inexperienced to know that suppressing newspapers, in the twentieth century is not practical politics.

The complexities of civilization increase by leaps and without bounds. If you don't use the right cylinder oil your automobile upkeep expenses will be increased needlessly, and if you are no lubricologist how are you to find which is the best oil?

The following is taken from a story in a high-priced magazine, and still some say American literature is on the decline:

"Finally, he walked forward, sat down on the bearskin beside her, taking her delicate ear gently between his fingers, turned her face toward his."

These two young Paris people were all alone, full of life and had known each other but a few days. Still, the young man had been making considerable speed. It was evening—on High Street. A cool breeze was playing through the leaves and a kindly full moon with the smiling feminine face, beamed down on them softly. The girl in the case sighed: "Isn't it romantic tonight." And he hadn't the heart to correct her.

As we read the newspapers, and a good many come our way, people are not so dogmatic as they were about a settlement of the strike nor quite so full of advice either. The notion that both sides to the trouble may have a very correct idea of what they are after and are capable of running their own affairs is beginning to pierce through and through, and we wouldn't be surprised if before the last word has been spoken it is not discovered that when it comes to playing the great American game of "bluff," neither held a monopoly.

It's really just a trifle hot, I won't maintain that it's not. But we can stand some summer stuff, For soon it will be cool enough.

A dispatch from Frankfort to the daily papers says the tobacco crop in Kentucky is enormous this year. Yes—but we can't smoke and keep warm this winter.

A certain business firm in Paris has posted the following sign in a conspicuous place, for the benefit of employees during the baseball season:

"All who wish leave of absence because of grandmother's funeral, a sick mother, the toothache, appointments with the doctor or the dentist and so forth, are requested to file same at least three hours before time for start of the baseball game."

Little drops of water
All we've got to drink,
Just right now I'll let my share
Go singing down the sink.

We are of the opinion that an alarmist is one who, in the season of corn fritters, fried chicken, canteloupes, tomatoes, fruit, and other good things, loses sleep over the shocking decadence of women as revealed in the costumes worn by the flappers.

The Jackson Times reports that Chester Fugate, of Quicksand Creek, killed a rattlesnake nine feet long on the hill above Chenowee Tunnel, and that "it took three bushels of meal to fill the hide." But corn whiskey made in a rattlesnake hide ought to satisfy the most exacting demander of a beverage with a bite.

Can't you remember "way back yonder" when it was absurd to spend the evening at the schoolhouse dancing, and should you by any chance be caught dancing while at school you would be ostracized and it would be the talk of the village? How times have changed? The parents are encouraging dances and the flappers are encouraging the boys. So there you are. Times have changed, indeed.

Vacation time is rapidly drawing to a close. And it brings this reflection—one, at least, to every man comes a day when the monotony of life seems unbearable, and the performance of its tasks well-nigh impossible. Then he seeks for some way to escape into a new environment, from which, across an interval of time and distance, he may see his special problem from a new angle. The writer wishes for every tired soul some such experience as the vacationists have had, a happy sojourn in a friendly land, a willing return to the old life, whose opportunities are seen with clear vision, and whose blessings are received with renewed thankfulness.

WHEN I AM DEAD

When I am dead, forget me, dear,
For I shall never know,
Thou'lt my cold and lifeless hands
Your burning tears should flow;
I'll cancel with my living voice
The debt you owe the dead—
Give me the love you showed me then,
But give it now instead.

And bring no wreaths to deck my grave,
For I shall never care,
Thou'lt the flowers I loved the most
Should grow and wither there.
I'll sell my chance of all the flowers
You'll layish when I'm dead
For one small bunch of violets now
Give that to me instead.

What saints we are when we are gone!

But what's the use to me
Of praises written on my tomb
For other eyes to see?
One little simple word of praise
By lips we worship, said
Is worth a hundred epithets—
Dear, say it now instead.

And faults that now are hard to bear
Oblivion then shall win;
Our sins are soon forgiven us
When we no more can sin.
But any bitter thought of me—
Keep it, for when I'm dead—
I shall not know, I shall not care,
Forgive now now, instead.

Lieut. Gen. Sir Walter Norris
Congreve.)

Wrong Belief Concerning Hebrew. Less than two centuries ago even men of learning believed that Hebrew was the original language, and that all other languages were offshoots from it. It has since been discovered that Hebrew was a dead language in the time of Jesus, and that no modern language has been derived from it, not even Yiddish.

TO MEMBERS OF THE SEWING CIRCLE

Do you wear corsets? If so, you are one of the women that the Fordney-McCumber Republican Tariff bill will compel to pay $58,000,000 in taxes a year. The proposed duty under the Fordney-McCumber bill is 64 per cent, or 3.7 times the wage cost. The present duty is 30 per cent on plain cotton corsets or nearly twice the present wage cost of 17.3 per cent. The Fair Tariff League to whom you are indebted for the statistics herein estimates that the proposed duty would be a possible tax of $29,000,000 for the manufacturers, and cost women at retail price twice this, or $58,000,000. This tax is for manufacturers—not for revenue. In 1919 the government collected only $10,000 on corsets; only $4,000 in 1920 and in 1921 only $10,000.

The Fair Tariff League, which has made a special study of this bill, says that the proposed duty will shut out imports and compel women to buy from domestic manufacturers at any prices they dare charge. A domestic manufacturer who is prosperous says, "It's an outrage." However, some corset factories are hard up, but so are some women.

We make corsets cheaper and better than anywhere else in the world. In 1920 the exports on corsets were 380 times the imports.

The 64 per cent tax these corsets is shown to be wholly unjust by the fact that wages in the corset industry are only 17.3 per cent.

The Fair Tariff League says that this corset tax is because women have not known and have not voted.

Are you going to vote for this increased tax by voting the Republican ticket or vote against it by voting the Democratic ticket?—National Democratic Committee.

LEWIS BEGINS SYSTEM TO GRADE STATE BANKS

A system of grading State banks, the purpose of which is to compile a record of the business efficiency of the 465 State institutions, was announced at the office of James P. Lewis, State Banking Commissioner.

Points on which the banks will be graded are: Loans, directors, duties, bookkeeping, capital and surplus, overdrafts, interest on deposits, officers and employers' bonds, and insurance. Institutions that attain a grade of 85 to 100 per cent and put in the "excellent" class; from 75 to 85 per cent "good"; 65 to 75 per cent "fair," and below 65 per cent "unsatisfactory." Steps will be taken to have those that are unsatisfactory to improve their business methods. Banks placed in the "excellent" class will be awarded a place on the banking department's "honor roll."

SEEKING CAMP OF "THE LONG HUNTERS"

Traces of the camp of the "long hunters," famous in the annals of Kentucky history the latter part of the Eighteenth Century, may be found by a party of Lexingtonians who plan to explore a cave near Hill Springs, Wayne county, the latter part of this month.

The "long hunters," it is related, came to Kentucky in 1770 from the Holstein, the Clinch and the New River regions and pitched camp in Wayne county about six miles from the present site of Monticello. From here they scatter in various directions to seek game, agreeing to return every five weeks to deposit the fruits of their labor at the common camp.

The adventurous spirit of the "long hunters," however, prevented them from keeping their agreement. The band of forty gradually drifted apart. Finally, in the early part of 1771, the nine remaining members of the band set out for home with the pelts they had gathered. At Cumberland Gap they were met by a band of Cherokees, who relieved them of their valuable burden and they return home empty-handed.

The party of explorers will be led by Prof. A. M. Miller, head of the department of geology, University of Kentucky. Those who probably will accompany him will be: Prof. W. S. Webb and Dr. Fee Tuttle, of the university faculty; Victor K. Dodge and Samuel M. Wilson.

In addition to seeking traces of the "long hunters" camp, the explorers hope to find evidences of the occupation of the cave before the company of the white men. The cave is located near a well-traveled road.

Early accounts of the "long hunters" say they found near the cave evidences of former occupation, such as rock-inclosed graves and the like.

LEST THEY FORGET

It is said that in the Southland, no more, as of old, can one hear, while visiting or journeying through that warm, sunny clime, the songs as sung by the old colored population in days gone by. Songs sung with a peculiar charm, which we hope will not be lost forever; they seemed to have a higher, nobler music of their own.

If you have never heard those old melodies as sung on the farm, in corn field, or on the cotton plantation by the southern colored people, if you have never listened to the harmony of their voices as the rich tones are caught and carried by the breezes out on the warm night air, then you have missed something mighty fine.

Negro melodies of the South have always been very popular with the American people and during the war they enjoyed a vogue in England. But it is claimed that the remarkable prosperity of the South has had disastrous effect on the negro melodies. They seem to have forgotten all about "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground," and "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot." In fact, the colored people apparently shun the melodies, typical of the Southland for the typical songs of musical comedy.

Somewhere way down in Georgia, we feel certain, could one drive to a little cabin, all tattered and unpainted there'd be songs by the light of the moon, which would easily melt the coldest heart. Again we'd find the young folks rolling on the little cabin floor all merry, all happy and gay, and again we'd listen to the old folks in the meadow or near the cabin door singing as of old, not the new airs of the day, but melodies of harmony, and low, a characteristic of the colored music as sung in the Sunny South.

WARNS PEOPLE AGAINST BUNCO GAME

A warning was issued by the Better Business Bureau of Louisville against silk stocking salesmen who apply and charge for the "nail file test."

Harry W. Riehl, bureau manager, refers to the test as "a pernicious practice which is covering the country." He adds that "we just have been advised that several crews working this 'bunco' game are operating in Louisville."

The solicitors claim exceptional strength and durability to Mr. Riehl "substantiating this by the use of the 'nail file test'."

"In making this test, a nail file is slipped inside the stocking, pushed down to the toe and then drawn rapidly upward. This makes a sound as if the file were ripping the fabric. However, when the nail file is removed it is noticed that the stocking has not been damaged in any way."

"A prospective purchaser is given the impression that the salesmen's hosiery and none other will stand this test while, as a matter of fact, any silk or silk and fibre hose will stand similar treatment. The swindle lies in the fact that salesman sells the stockings for a much higher price than could be charged for them in the average retail store."

TRIBUTE TO PROF. JAMES K. PATTERSON

(Louisville Times)

Having lived beyond the reasonable expectation of the endurance of the silver cord, James K. Patterson probably felt as death hovered at his couch that he had finished his course. Certainly he had the satisfaction of secure knowledge that he had fought a good fight. Kentucky will fail to honor herself if the State be amiss in anything developing upon Kentuckians, to keep alive the public appreciation of a man who served so faithfully, so long and so well in advancing the cause of education in this Commonwealth.

For forty-one years James K. Patterson strove mightily in behalf of the University of Kentucky. His was a bitter struggle, for he had to fight down ignorance and stupidity in practically every session of the Legislature. Yet he moved forward and his progress for his beloved institution was the progress of Kentucky. Forced into pleading annually for the taxation pittance which had to serve for the maintenance of the University, Doctor Patterson not only kept the school going, but spreading and becoming more and more a vital factor for the release of Kentucky farm boys from the bondage of primitive methods and means.

The experiment station which is so useful and important in bringing Kentucky agriculture to its full fruition was founded by Doctor Patterson. The grounds for the Agricultural College were obtained by him. The appropriation for this college was due to his efforts. That Doctor Patterson was a man of parts was never better demonstrated than when he went into court and fought successfully the attempts of lawyers to establish the unconstitutionality of the University's appropriation from the State.

James K. Patterson was of Scotch birth and blood. Maybe it was Scotch zeal for education which made him so tenacious and so conquering in his determination to open the doors of the house of learning to the young people of Kentucky. But he was a Kentuckian by choice and Kentucky claiming him can hardly go too far in displaying appreciation of what his coming meant to the State.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH

Paris is a healthy town. We believe in the gospel of good health as a foundation of success in all enterprises. We try to safeguard our own health, and to protect the health of others. By carefulness, thoughtfulness and watchfulness, we try to avoid the things that threaten this community health. Believing that "health is the vital principal of bliss," we strive to develop in the young generation a respect for the laws of health, that they may be happy themselves and conserve the happiness of others.

In this respect the Paris playgrounds are a vital factor in promoting the health and welfare of the children.

THE OLD FAMILY TODDY

According to a rural paper a Central Kentucky man prides himself in the possession of a "toddy glass" that has been in the family for over a century. The "toddy glass" recalls an old Kentucky custom that was an institution down to ante-bellum days.

The "toddy glass" was utilized for the mixing of an old-fashioned toddy that was passed around and partaken of by company and the family. The common toddy existed before the sanitary crusade started and individual toddies became the vogue. In these days even if prohibition did not stand in the way, the old-time "toddy glass" likely would be placed under the health law along with the common drinking cup.

Judging by the tales we read, we should judge that even an old salt will sometimes get fresh.

Bourbon News Advertisers Get Results!

TWO VITAL NEEDS

There are two very important things that go toward making a good, live town—one is persistent, thorough and attractive advertising and the other is backing up the advertising with performance. There is no use advertising if you haven't the goods and there is no use having the goods if you don't advertise them. No town has ever benefitted by the man who sits down and waits for more enterprising and public-spirited persons to bring trade to him, and neither is it by the man who fails to deliver the goods when called upon. Both help make a cow pasture of a town. When the business houses of a community know how to advertise and how to follow up the advertising by giving good service, the community is sure to grow, and that helps all the people, for a part of every dollar stays in town. A part of every dollar spent in a town goes to taxes, churches, charities, street and sidewalk improvement. Isn't that argument enough to convince you the dollar ought to stay here?

EXPECTS COAL HELD AT FAIR PRICES

Governor Morrow's action in placing county judges on his State Fuel Commission was described by F. M. Sackett, commission member, as "one of the most drastic and wise moves in the present crisis." This action, it is understood, will keep retail coal from going above a price of approximately $9.50 a ton to the consumer in Louisville during the coming months. In other sections of the State the price will vary from this figure, depending on the freight rates, but peak prices, it is assured, will not be reached at any time.

NEWS OF THE COURTS

In the County Court Judge Geo. Batterton appointed Thomas Lloyd and D. P. Thomas as administrators of the estate of the late James B. Thomas. They qualified for the trust by furnishing bond in the sum of $10,000, with Anna Thomas as surety.

In the County Court yesterday Judge George Batterton heard the case of Daisy Boyd, colored, charged with cutting her husband, Chas. Boyd, with intent to kill, at their home in Ruckerville. The warrant for the woman's arrest was sworn out by County Attorney D. D. Cline. Judge Batterton held the woman in $300 bond to appear before the grand jury at the next term of the Bourbon Circuit Court. Boyd, who had been charged with beating his better-half, was acquitted. In default of bail the woman was sent to the custody of Jailer Taylor.

In the County Court Wednesday morning, Boone Guy, white, was arraigned before County Judge Geo. Batterton on a charge of having moonshine liquor in his possession for the purpose of sale. After hearing the testimony Judge Batterton imposed a fine of $100 and a jail sentence of thirty days. Guy fled from his home about a month ago when it was raided by Sheriff M. Peale Collier and Deputy Sheriffs Gibson and Gilkey and his whereabouts were unknown until Tuesday, when he suddenly returned and surrendered to the authorities, giving bond for his appearance in the County Court to answer the charge. At the time the raid was made Guy was not at home.

Hobert Ritchie, of near Kiser-ton, was placed under arrest Wednesday afternoon by Deputy Sheriffs Gilkey and Thomas on a bench warrant issued from the Nicholas County Court, for having moonshine liquor in his possession. Ritchie furnished bond in the sum of $200 for his appearance at the September term of the Nicholas Circuit Court to answer the charge.

Joe Cain, of Paris, was arraigned before Judge Batterton and fined $10 and costs on a charge of breach of the peace.

SUNDAY'S GAMES
Maysville at Winchester.
Paris at Cynthiana.
Mt. Sterling at Lexington.

Paris defeated the Lexington team in a loosely-played game at League Park yesterday afternoon by a score of 9 to 5. The game was devoid of any especial feature, save the cruel act of Meadows in driving a ball over the fence for a homer. Each team was officially credited with four errors. The attendance was up to the average of former games. Valentine, who was carded to occupy the pitching mound for Paris, failed to put in an appearance.

Geo. Shears, who was a southpaw on the Paris team of the old Blue-grass League, several years ago, was a member of a touring party from Indiana, visiting in Paris this week. Shears renewed many old acquaintances and recounted many incidents of interest regarding the old days of baseball in Paris. He is now engaged in practicing chiropractic in his Indiana home town.

Fred Toney, former New York twirler, whom the St. Louis Nationals obtained by waiver from Boston a week ago, will not report to the Cardinals until next season, Branch Rixie, manager of the Cardinals, announced on his return from Nashville, Tenn., where he conferred with the pitcher.

Owen Wiker "Pete" Hisle, formerly star infielder on the Winchester team in the Blue Grass League, has gone to the Virginia State League, where he will finish out the season.

The game in the Church League series between the Presbyterian and Baptist teams scheduled for Tuesday was declared off. Only three members of one team, and two of the other had appeared on the field by the time play should have begun. The next game is scheduled for to-day between the Methodist and Christian teams, at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

BOURBON COUNTY TENNIS TOURNAMENTS

The Bourbon County Tennis Tournament will begin Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock on the Community Service courts. The following people are scheduled to play:

Billy Yerkes vs. Sol Feld, at 2 p. m.; Harry Baldwin vs. Stanley Price, 2:30; Yutaka Minakuchi vs. Bob McCarty, 3:00; Howard Willis vs. Louis Meglone 3:45; Bob Frank vs. Tom Spicer, 4:30; and Howard Nippert vs. N. Brockmann, 5:15.

The winner will be declared by the best two out of three sets. For the finals, however, the winner will be the best three out of five sets. The men's tournament will run three days and the finals will be Wednesday afternoon.

The girls will play Thursday afternoon according to the following schedule: Margaret Lavin vs. Emily Fithian, 3:00 o'clock; Harriet Rogers vs. Frances Steenberg, 4:00; and Mamie Lee Baldwin vs. Valette McClintock, at 5:00 o'clock.

Two handsome loving cups have been donated by Dr. Dailey and Mrs. R. C. Talbott. The entries will not close until Saturday and anyone who wishes to enter is urged to do so before that time.

DOING IT HERE, TOO!

"Several motorists have been haled before Judge Thomas this week for violating the speed ordinances. A few heavy fines will go a long way in curbing speeding and reckless driving, which has been going on in Carlisle all summer."—Carlisle Mercury.

The motorists have been having a pretty soft time in Paris, and very few of them getting fined, either! They apparently think they are immune from the law or any of its influences, as witnessed by their constant defiance.

Last week we published an item to the effect that High street is being made a speedway for demon autoists, to the detriment of life and limb. A resident of Pleasant street tells us the practice is not confined to High street by any means, and that the speeding business first started on Pleasant street. He states that he has seen many narrow escapes, but was, of course, powerless to do anything of his own volition to stop the practice. He stated that he had seen three very narrow escapes at the corner of Pleasant and Third streets, when autos driven by reckless drivers, plunged down the street without a sound being made from the warning horns, stopping barely in the nick of time to avoid a collision, that might have resulted in broken bones, death, and the wrecking of both machines.

We have asked in vain what is to be the remedy, what is the solution? One thing that might stop these speedsters would be to—What? Who knows?

FIVE GENERATIONS MEMBERS

Thomas W. Campbell, of Lexington, who has recently affiliated with Dougherty Lodge No. 65 F. & A. M., of Carlisle, is a descendant of a long line of ancestors who were members of this lodge.

Governor Thomas Metcalfe, whose grandson, Thomas M. Campbell, was the grandfather of Mr. Campbell, was a charter member of the Carlisle lodge and helped to organize it in 1820. Since then the sons of the succeeding generations have become affiliated with the Carlisle lodge until five in all have become members. There has never been a time since the founding of the chapter when there was not a member of this family actively associated with this lodge.

Shortly after the founding of the chapter, Mr. Metcalfe became governor of Kentucky, in 1828. At that time the governor's mansion stood at the intersection of the Carlisle and Maysville and Lexington pikes in Nicholas county. This place was known as the "Forest Retreat" and it was here that the stage coaches of those days changed horses.

The Campbell chain of ancestors as members of the order began with the affiliation of John Preston Campbell, who married a daughter of Governor Metcalfe. Mr. Campbell has in his possession a Masonic emblem made by his grandfather, Captain Thomas H. Campbell, while he was in prison during the Civil War, Captain Campbell, who was a soldier in the Confederate Army, was being held a prisoner by the Union forces on Johnson Island under a court martial of death. According to the family history, it was at this time that he designed the emblem from a piece of hard rubber and a ten cent piece.

When the day came for his execution and he was brought before the firing squad it is related that he presented the pin to the Union officer in charge who happened to be a Mason, and his execution was postponed. Later by the aid of this officer he escaped and returned to the Confederate Army.

Mr. Campbell, the latest to become a member of the Carlisle chapter, joined the Masonic lodge in Jamalpur, Behar, India, in 1915. This branch is known as the lodge of St. George in the East, and was organized under the English constitution. At the beginning of the war in 1917, Mr. Campbell returned to the United States and entered the American diplomatic service, and was sent to Colombo, Ceylon, as American vice consul.

"AS FINE A BODY OF MEN AS EVER FOUGHT"

Year by year the rapidly dwindling army that followed Gen. John Morgan in the war between the States has met at some convenient spot within Kentucky to fight anew the old battles around the camp fires and to swap experiences of the days that had intervened since that gallant warrior fell on the battlefield at Greenville, Tenn., in 1864. One may be sure that the stories of how the rebel chief kept back an entire Union army when he made his dash through the border of Indiana and Ohio did not lack any details in the later telling.

For many years these reunions of Morgan's Men were gala events, attracting thousands of visitors. But time has thinned out the ranks until only a mere handful gathered at Lexington to greet each other for perhaps the last time, and to call the muster roll of the regiment, to which few will answer present.

"Morgan's Men" will soon become a memory only, but it will be a pleasant memory of as fine a body of men as ever fought for what they deemed right.

The Stork's Mistake.
"Oh, mother," said a little girl excitedly, "there's a new baby over at Mrs. Brown's; but don't you think the stork meant it for Miss Jones, who boards there? 'Cause Mrs. Brown has four children already and Miss Jones hasn't got a single one."—Boston Transcript.

U. S. FILM SHOWS DANGERS TO ELK

Campaign to Save Majestic Member of Deer Family From Fate of the Buffalo.

STARVATION GREATEST FOE

Adequate Winter Grazing Grounds Are an Absolute Necessity—Winter Snows Drive Herds Into Forests Where Poachers Get Them.

Washington.—The question of whether the elk—a noble American animal and the most majestic of the deer family—is to follow the buffalo into near-extinction is asked in film form in a new United States Department of Agriculture motion picture, "When Elk Come Down."

Up in the highlands of Yellowstone National park dwell the remaining big herds of this animal. In the park where they are well protected there is an abundance of feed in the summer time. But in the winter, when the big snows sweep down on the Rockies, the elk are forced from the mountains and out of the park, to the lower levels where there is less snow. In this annual migration many of the elk pass into the national forests which entirely surround the park. Thus they become a source of concern to the forest service, which, in co-operation with the Montana state game department, is responsible for the new film.

To Protect the Elk.

The film story opens when a big snow is due. From a ranger station, forest rangers and a state game warden start out to protect the elk from "tooth hunters." Up in the mountains "Six Prong," a great bull elk, sniffs the coming snow and starts to lead his clan to the lower country. Sam Bil-ler, a notorious poacher, also senses the coming of "elk weather," and he and a companion leave their cabin for the open ranges, knowing that the elk will be easy to trail and kill when they are handicapped by snow and hunger. The adventures of the three elements in the triangle are, then shown, up to the trailing and killing of an elk by Biller and Biller's arrest by the rangers. The story ends with the statement that the elk can be protected from poachers, but that starvation, the animals' other dangerous foe, can be permanently thwarted only by the provision of adequate winter grazing grounds.

The available winter range in the national forests is far too limited in area to support the great bands that migrate from the Yellowstone park. The greater part of the winter feeding grounds is, also, not within the national forests but under private ownership. The solution of the elk problem, it is said, lies in the purchase of these private lands either by the government or by popular subscription.

Cold Photography.

"When Elk Come Down," was photographed last February in the Absaroka national forest, Montana. The camera work was done with the thermometer twenty and thirty degrees below zero. There are many scenes in which the elk appear on the snow-covered mountains. Good "close-ups" of the animals were obtained by the use of telephoto lenses.

The picture, two reels in length, will be distributed and exhibited largely through the co-operation of organizations interested in perpetuating the elk and other game animals. Prints may be borrowed from the department, or may be bought at the manufacturing cost by authorized institutions.

Crow Rides With Mailman.

Norwich, N. Y.—John Cheehy, rural mail carrier, has a pet crow named Jim, which rides with him on his mail route. The crow has never offered to fly away and may be seen every day riding with Sheehy in the latter's automobile.

Often the crow is perched on Sheehy's shoulder when he goes to the post office to make up his mail for delivery. The crow was taken out of a nest and is about two months old.

Two Men First to Climb Mt. Victoria.
Lake Louise, Alberta.—Val A. Flynn of St. Louis, noted amateur mountain climber, and Rudolph Aemer, Swiss guide, succeeded in climbing the face of Mount Victoria in the Selkirk range, 11,600 feet. This is the first time this feat has been performed. Flynn has tried it three times before.

SPIRIT OF CO-OPERATION AMONG KENTUCKIANS

Nothing has been more marked in Kentucky in the last twenty years than the growing spirit of co-operation among the business men in the smaller cities and towns and this has aided largely in the development and progress of the State. Now every little town has a Chamber of Commerce, a Board of Trade, a Commercial Club or a Business Men's Association and many of them keep a secretary on the job all the time boosting the town and attracting additional enterprises.

Before this spirit of co-operation came the small town business man had little in common and every tub stood on its own bottom. Usually it was the case that if one merchant suggested something for the improvement of the town that the other knocked it. Organization of a commercial body furnished the vehicle for a better understanding and an interchange of ideas that has been helpful all around and improved the town.

These business associations in many cases have obtained the adjustment of discriminating freight rates and the furnishing of better service by public utility corporations. Also they have made for better municipal government and a more economical expenditure of the tax money.

Kentucky towns have found that there is nothing that will boost a town more than a live commercial organization. It is the "pep" that has put many of these towns on the business map. It took a long time for them to get it but the Kentucky small town business men have learned the lesson typified in the motto of their State.

KNOW HOW TO VOTE?

While apparently in nowise intricate the secret ballot system of voting which has been operative in Kentucky for over thirty years seems not to be understood by many people. At every election and in practically every precinct in the State numbers of ballots are rejected and uncanceled because of fatal defects and this means that the same number of voters have disfranchised themselves through ignorance of how to vote the ballot properly.

It might be surmised that such ballots are cast by the illiterate, but as a rule this is not true as the unlettered voter usually votes the straight ticket and stamps his ballot under the party device. In most cases it is the voter who should know better that hands in the ballots that must be thrown out at every election.

Whenever the experienced election officer finds a ballot in the box perfectly blank and without the semblance of any mark upon it he knows that it was put there by a voter of ordinary intelligence that did not know how to vote and would have resented any offer to aid him in marking the ballot. Not knowing how to vote, but in order to save his face this class of voter casts a blank ballot and does it election after election.

The "scratcher" often comes to grief and by disdaining any help often turns in a spoiled ballot. It very often occurs, too, that he votes for the very candidate he intended to vote against. All of this comes from ignorance of the forms of a system that it would seem ought to be fairly well understood after an experience of over three decades.

WATCH LOST FIFTEEN MONTHS IS FOUND

Fifteen months exposed to wind and weather, a gold watch lost in June, 1921, in Lexington, was found Saturday by J. M. Barker, 43 Clifton avenue. Plowing in the garden of a neighbor, Mr. Barker lost his timepiece when it was flicked from his pocket by a low-hanging fruit tree branch. He spent hours in plowing the garden again in a vain search.

Saturday, while smoking a cigarette, Mr. Barker carelessly flicked a match into some dry grass which became ignited and burned a considerable area before being extinguished. At the foot of the tree the long lost time piece was found.

Although the leather fob had nearly rotten away, the watch ran merrily when wound.

ARE BARBERS BETTER?

For some years barber shops in Kentucky were under State supervision. Barbers were required to stand an examination before the State Board of Barber Examiners appointed by the Governor and the shops were obliged to comply with fixed regulations of sanitation and service.

After being in operation for several years the law was repealed at the instance of the barbers who kicked at the fee that went to the examiners and what they regarded as an unwarranted meddling with their business. The law had one good effect in that it brought the barber shops up to a certain standard that since have been maintained or improved upon through competition for the public patronage.

Street begging is greatly on the increase in London.

Let's disarm the thermometer

MEATS and starches for the body are like fuel for the furnace.

Why not adopt for breakfast or lunch, Grape-Nuts with cream or milk and a little fresh fruit—and turn off the internal heat? Here's complete nourishment, with cool comfort.

Grape-Nuts contains all the nourishment of whole wheat flour and malted barley, including the vital mineral elements and bran "roughage," and it is partially pre-digested in the long baking process by which it is made.

There's a wonderful charm for the appetite in the crisp, sweet goodness of this ready-to-eat food, and fitness and lightness afterward, which meet summer's heat with a smile.

Your grocer will supply you with Grape-Nuts!

THE FIGHT ON ILLITERACY

Kentucky made some headway in the eradication of illiteracy during the last decennial census period and the fact that the State went up a few notches in the ascending scale of education in a measure must be credited to the anti-illiteracy movement started ten years ago. The fight on illiteracy, however, was allowed to lag when the Legislature two years ago failed to make an appropriation to continue the work of the Kentucky Illiteracy Commission.

It seems appropriate that offering such a field for a crusade against illiteracy, Kentucky should have furnished the idea that has become the standard in the war on ignorance. This was the "Moonlight School" idea originated by Mrs. Cora Wilson Setwart, of Morehead, a dozen years ago and since adopted by many other States.

Strange as it may appear the anti-illiteracy movement was combated in some sections where but few of the people were able to read and write. On one occasion, Mrs. Setwart, while on a trip to a remote section was bluntly informed that they "didn't want any illiteratin'" around there. Like other welfare movements it was opposed by some people who needed it most.

That it is a difficult matter to overcome the prejudices of the ignorant, aptly is illustrated by a story in which the late Governor Leslie figured. He was then a candidate for State Senator and was opposed by another, who proved a better demagogue. The latter started the report in a densely ignorant section of the district, that if Leslie was elected he intended to pass a law making the teaching of grammar compulsory in the public schools.

This was too much for the ignorant voters and they administered a stinging rebuke by voting to a man against Mr. Leslie.

WORN OUT AFTER SHE COOKED A MEAL

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Read the Result

Cincinnati, Ohio.—"I suffered for a year with nervous troubles and irregularities before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My back pained all the time and I was unfit for housework. I was worn out if I cooked a meal, and was unable to do my washing. My girl friends and my sister told me if I would take your Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills I would be relieved. After taking the first bottle I felt better, and neglected it awhile, but found I could not do my work until I was stronger. So I took the Vegetable Compound again and now I am the mother of a 19 months old boy. He is fat and healthy and I am sure I could never have carried him if it had not been for your Vegetable Compound. I recommend your medicine to all women although I am young to be advising some one older."—Mrs. CHRIST. PETROFF, 318 W. Liberty St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound contains no harmful drugs and can be taken in safety by any woman.

OUR WELL KNOWN HOSPITALITY

Kentucky life has one outstanding feature, the generous hospitality of the people that has made the State famous far and wide. The Kentuckian no matter what may be his circumstances is by nature a liberal entertainer and the stranger ordinarily is more than welcome under his roof.

The exception is the rule where the traveler cannot put up for the night and eat the "vittels" afforded and not be met with resentment if he offers to pay. The host may permit a few coins to be given to the children of the household but often he will draw the line at that. He finds pleasure in entertaining the guest and making him feel at home and the mere thought of commercializing his hospitality is repugnant. Many customs have changed in Kentucky but for the most part the spirit of true and generous hospitality clings.

This Kentucky trait is more noticeable and talked about than any other. Travelers from other States cannot understand how they can drive up to a Kentucky home and enjoy a meal prepared for them without a previous haggling about the price of the accommodations. Their wonder increases when they unwittingly offer to pay for the service and are rebuffed for their presumption. Bragging on the cooking of the good housewife by the host and mistress who are ready to provide for the next visitor that comes around.

Kentucky hospitality is not confined to any one section but predominates in all whether it be in the mountains or the lowland. A Kentuckian's larder may be barely sufficient to provide for his own needs, but generally he is willing to share his substance with the stranger within the gate.

KENTUCKY HOMESPUN JEANS

A suit of clothes made from Kentucky homespun jeans now is a rarity but the cloth still is produced in a small way in remote sections of the mountain country. There the old-time methods of carding the wool, spinning and looming are practiced in the production of the finished cloth for which Kentucky once had a nation-wide reputation.

Kentucky statesmen of the older period always appeared attired in jeans and occasionally now men are to be seen wearing a home-spun jeans suit of the most modern sartorial cut giving the wearer an air of distinction.

In most cases the mountain looms now are devoted to weaving rag carpets in which handwork many of the women are experts. Many visitors have marveled at the blending of the colors and the artistic designs in rag rugs woven on a mountain loom.

LEATHER DEALERS SAY "HORSE COMING BACK"

"The horse is coming back," was the message brought to Louisville by the thirty-sixth annual convention of the National Harness Manufacturers and Leather Goods Dealers' Association of the United States. "Not that the automobile will be displaced, but that there is a field of usefulness for both, and that the horse can not be economically replaced by motor-propelled vehicles for many utility purposes," as one delegate put it.

THE LOUISVILLE & NASHVILLE BUILDING NEW LOCOMOTIVES

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company is negotiating for the purchase of twenty-five largest type, latest design locomotives to be used for hauling coal in the Corbin district, according to reports from Louisville.

While no definite announcement of the letting of the contract has been made and while it was said by officials of the company that the contract had not been signed, it is understood that the locomotives are to cost about $45,000 each, or $1,125,000 in all.

The contract is to be let, it was said, either to the Baldwin Company, of Philadelphia, or to the American Locomotive company of Schenectady, N. Y.

TO MEMBERS OF THE SEWING CIRCLE

The proposed duty on hosiery would add $289,000,000 to the amount the American people now pay, which sum, it is estimated by the Fair Tariff League, would double to the consumers at retail, making $578,000,000. Out of this enormous sum the government would get a possible revenue of only $3,600,000.

In the production of hosiery and knit goods the United States is the master of the world. Our exports were thirty-eight times more than our imports in 1919 and ten times greater in 1920. Our exports were more than 50 per cent in excess of imports in 1921 when all foreign countries were rushing merchandise into the United States in anticipation of increases in the tariff. We meet foreign prices in foreign countries. We could meet them here, but the manufacturer not only wants to shut out foreign competition, but he wants to fix his own price, which under the new tariff bill would be the worst kind of a profiteering taxation.

Read what the Supreme Court of the United States, in the Marshall case, said about this kind of taxation:

"To lay with one hand the power of the government on the property of the citizens and with the other bestow it upon favorite individuals to aid private enterprise and to build up private fortunes is none the less robbery because it is done under the forms of the law and is called taxation." The Fair Tariff League asks: "To whom does this country belong—the hosiery manufacturers?"

The Republican party in its tariff bill legalizes this kind of robbery.

The Democratic party is opposed to it.

You can help to stop it by voting the Democratic ticket this fall.

PRIORITY SOUGHT FOR HIGHWAY MATERIAL

In an effort to obtain priority orders for material used in public road building in Kentucky, Senator Richard P. Ernst, State Highway Commissioner Joe Boggs, of Frankfort, and Green Garrett, of Winchester, held a conference with Chairman McCord, of the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington. They explained that unless material could be obtained promptly, 5,000 men would be thrown out of employment on the State highways within 60 days and that work on road building would be delayed seriously.

Commissioner McCord, a former Kentuckian, promised to do his best to provide the opportunity for Kentucky to get its building material without interfering with the necessary distribution of coal.

VIOLIN PROVES TO BE RARE FIND

At a sacrifice sale, held in Hazard, William and Charles Newland bought a Stradivarius violin from an old colored man living on Clear Creek, it having been given to one of his ancestors by a Kentucky pioneer. The old man joined the church at a revival and has taken his religion so seriously as to believe that "fiddling" is sinful. To make his conversion perfect, he decided that the fiddle which had been his treasure and companion for more than half a century must be removed from his cabin, and the Newland brothers accepted the opportunity to buy it. The instrument bears the date of 1721.

STATE W. C. T. U. CONVENTION

Mrs. Frances Beauchamp, State president of the W. C. T. U., has issued the call for the annual State convention to be held in Covington, September 22-26. Financial pledges, accepted memberships and special campaigns will be features of reports from local unions. The World W. C. T. U. convention will be held in Philadelphia November 11-16, and the National convention will be the two days following, also in Philadelphia.

EIGHTY-ONE AND STILL GOING STRONG

Under the above heading the Maysville Daily Bulletin of Tuesday published the following regarding a fine old gentleman of the old school, well known former resident of Paris and Millersburg:

"Mr. John W. Boulden, of this city, yesterday celebrated his eighty-first birthday anniversary.

"He is a Southerner and a Kentuckian to the core, was one of 'Morgan's Raiders,' and is rounding out his autumn days in the quietude of his home and never neglects to attend the annual meeting of General Morgan's remnant of survivors. Mr. Boulden is now day clerk at the St. Charles Hotel, in Front street. He can relate more unpublished reminiscences of those old war times than any man in the State. Yesterday, his sister, Mrs. Nannie Hunter, of Washington, gave a birthday dinner in Mr. Boulden's honor, and the affair was bounteously beautiful and true hospitality characterized the occasion."

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK—

That to get the best results in advertising, you should use your newspapers because they are read in every home.

That this is the day of golden opportunity for your city. If the opportunity be postponed through needless delays it may be lost. This is your opportunity to do your share to make your city a busier and bigger city.

That you should boost, not knock. There is some good in every city. Help to develop the good.

That you should not wait to be asked to boost your city, do it without the asking.

That you should always remember there is two sides to every question. You might be on the wrong side.

That an ideal city is essentially a city of homes. A good city in which to live and make a living.

That your city is an industrial city, whose income is balanced by a rich surrounding agricultural section.

That your city should be a friendly city. While it is ideally located for industrial expansion, to be known as a friendly city and take pride in this friendly spirit will be a great asset to attract newcomers.

That a man in looking for a new home, could find no city which could offer him better educational facilities or more wholesome living conditions than can be found in your city.

That you should start right now and become a live business booster.

OLD ORDER CHANGETH

Another Kentucky institution has toppled since prohibition has got well on its way, writes a staff correspondent. No longer is the erstwhile familiar "balsam bottle" to be found in easy reach on the shelf of the average rural home, for the reason that one of the essential ingredients hardly is available to most of those who clung to the remedy as a general specific.

The preparation consisted of a balsam pear in a bottle of whisky. It was regarded as an effective first aid and good for almost anything from a lacerated finger to "tummy-ache." The balsam bottle had a traditional place in nearly every well regulated family and it had come to be looked upon as something they could not get along without. With its contents drained for the last time and no more whisky in sight, the old balsam bottle was parted with as like an old standby with nothing else to take its place.

Many of its users did not realize the force and effect of prohibition until it hit the balsam bottle.

THE OLD TOWN PUMP

The old town pump with its germ encrusted iron dipper dangling from a chain now is a curiosity. It owes its passing to the unrelenting crusade of the health authorities against a potential menace to public health.

The fellow that nearly all his life slaked his thirst at the old town pump may be pardoned for being somewhat incredulous about the misgivings of the learned health experts and the lurking dangers of bacteria associated with the public pump. Be this as it may the town pump had to go when public sentiment was aroused against prevailing insanitary practices and there is hardly a doubt but at that public health has been the gainer.

BOARDS OF COMMERCE TO REPORT PROFITEERING

Boards of trade and chambers of commerce of Kentucky have been listed by Governor Edwin P. Morrow in his fight to prevent profiteering in coal. In a letter made public he requested that the members report instances where industries and coal dealers are charged more than $4.50 a ton at the mine and where consumers are being charged an "unreasonable and unconscionable profit."

LEGEND QUIETS FEAR

Volcanic Activities Fail to Disturb Older Hawaiians.

Remember Ancient Legendary Agreement in Which Pele, Goddess of the Volcano, Promised to Withhold the Lava.

Hilo, Island of Hawaii, T. H.—Recent volcanic activity in the ancient pits of Makopuhi, Hanau and Napau, which have been "dead" since 1840, drained much of the lava that had made Halemaumau, the vast inner crater of the Kilauea volcano, so spectacular, and caused much fear that the lava would flow toward the sea and inundate the little villages of Kalapana, Panau and Puaa.

The older generation of Hawaiians, however, entertained no such fear, for they remembered an ancient legendary agreement that had been made by Pele, goddess of the volcano, with Kama Puaa, the Hawaiian pig god, by which Pele promised her lava would never flow through Hilo or Puaa to the sea.

Pele and Kama Puaa had an argument and Kama Puaa went to Halemaumau, Pele's home, to fight it out. The god and goddess fought until Pele was overcome, and she pleaded for peace, according to the legend.

"We shall have peace if you promise never to allow your lava to flow through Puaa or Hilo to the sea," Kama Puaa said. Pele assented, and she has never broken the promise, fearing a return of the hated Kama Puaa, the legend said.

In 1880, when a lava flow was proceeding toward Hilo and threatened to destroy the city, the Princess Ruth came from Honolulu here and, standing near the flow, reminded Pele of her promise and her danger from Kama Puaa if she broke the agreement. The flow stopped immediately, according to the older Hawaiians.

On several other occasions Pele has sent her red-hot rivers in the direction of Puaa and Hilo, but they have never reached the two places.

The last activity, resulting from an underground flow from Halemaumau that broke out at Makopuhi, 11 miles down the great southeast rift that leads from Kilauea, has changed the appearance of Kilauea, Hawaii's greatest scenic attraction, tremendously, according to persons now at the crater.

It is now possible during favorable wind shifts to approach close to the pit-rim in what was known as Pele's oven.

Although the pit of Kilauea shows no activity, volcano observers say that "she is not dead, only sleeping."

SEEK GOLD IN OFFICE SMOKE

United States to Filter Clouds From Wall Street Assay Building for Saving.

New York.—Thousands of dollars' worth of gold and silver which now goes up in smoke each year through the stack of the United States assay office in Wall street is going to be saved by the government. A dispatch stated that work has been started on the installation of the Cottrell electrical precipitation equipment. Through this equipment there will be recovered suspended particles of precious metal from the gases arising from smelting and refining operations.

The gases which will be treated will pass up flues, provided for the purpose, to the precipitation plant. Superintendent Isaac H. Smith, who has been conducting tests, believes that there will be a saving in the recovery of gold and silver of from $8 to $9,000 a year net.

White Squirrel.

Kansas City, Mo.—A white squirrel is a rarity. Last week, in Shannon county, a man saw a white squirrel go into his hole in a big oak tree. The next day he took some incredulous neighbors, determined to capture the little animal. It was necessary to chop down four trees before this was accomplished. And, sure enough, the squirrel was all white with pink eyes. It now lives in a cage in Birch Tree.
